On December 18th 2010 my wife Aimee had a slip and fall accident while working. Her feet came out from under her and she landed on her face and left side. Aimee landed so hard that she not only received several bruises but also had a black eye and her nose was broken which resulted in surgery to properly fix.

For 3 years we worked with the workman's compensation department. We struggled to get things completed but we were managing it on our own. We felt it was a complicated issue because of who she worked for at the time and where the accident happened and that facility is not her employer.

In December of 2013 things changed. Communication with the workman's compensation department completely shut down. The neurologist they sent Aimee to refused to see her. They were no longer going to provide any care for her situation. Then the prescription Aimee has to take came at "our expense". This was all happening and there was no closure of her case along with no communication. It was obvious they wanted Aimee to just shut up and go away. We started to get very nervous.

We decided it was time to get professional legal assistance. I told Aimee about you and your area of legal practice. She agreed to meet. Aimee left the meeting feeling very comfortable and assured that you would be taking care of her case. You and your staff did exactly that - you took charge of her case.

Aimee's prescriptions were starting to be reimbursed and there was communication between the workman's compensation board and yourself which you then communicated to Aimee. It came time for a settlement and both Aimee and I feel you represented her interests in a very professional manner. You were upfront with expectations about her case and Aimee is very pleased with the outcome and working with you.

In the future if I know of anyone that needs legal representation in the area of workman's compensation or has an unfortunate accident please know that I will tell them about you and your staff. Your attention and our experience in handling Aimee's case will make it very easy for me to refer you in confidence!

Thank you for taking care of Aimee!
