

Dear Karen,

For an adopted person, the concept of home is especially important. For someone who has lived all over the world, sometimes it's hard to know where they belong. For a newlywed, starting a new life requires a place from which to start. For me, being all those things, I needed the perfect real estate agent, and that's you.

Karen, you are so patient. If your commission were based on the number of questions you had to answer from me, I think you'd be retired. They came in all forms - phone calls, emails, even text messages - but you were thoughtful and knowledgeable with each and every one. You kept me calm and you guided me through every step of the process. I really needed that.

You listened to exactly what I wanted and needed, whether it was a Fort Knox fortress or my very own elevator, and we worked together until you checked every box. Because of your experience, I now have my dream home. While it may disappoint you to hear that I hope to never move, to me, that's just an indication of how well you did your job. I know you'd do just that good a job for any person I referred to you, which is why I will always do so without hesitation.

You've been an amazing agent and an amazing friend throughout. I'm so, incredibly grateful. Thanks to you, I've got my Park Avenue view and that piece of myself that I've missed my whole life. I'm finally home.

Sincerely,
Heather
