ENDORSEMENT LETTER FOR ANDREW JONES AND ATLANTA PROPERTY MATTERS

As with many Baby Boomers these days, I have the situation of having my mother move in with me for her safety and well-being. This situation, of course, involved making sure that everything in my home was working properly and that there are no safety hazards that would endanger anyone, especially an 85-year-old woman.

My home is 15 years old, and I have lived in it for 14 of those 15 years. It has 2 floors with a staircase that has a 90-degree turn on the first landing. On the set of stairs that go down from the first landing is a wooden bannister that is attached at the top to the wall. In the course of normal wear and tear, the top of the bannister was beginning to come loose. In my mind, this was a dangerous situation not only for anyone navigating the stairs but especially for my mother.

I reached out to Andrew Jones of Atlanta Property Matters, and he came out and fixed this problem in almost no time, knowing that my mother was scheduled to move in within the next few days. Not only did Andrew fix the loose bannister, he did it in such a way as to anchor it so firmly that I believe it will last until the end of time! It also looks really good. Andrew also fixed 2 electrical outlets in my kitchen and replaced the light bulbs in the garage door opener. This is not the first time Andrew has been to my home to make repairs – he is handy in so many ways with so many things, plus he is neat, on time and completely professional, AND he guarantees his work. Andrew even did a gorgeous tile job around my garden tub that many a contractor has admired and asked about, as well as a lot of my neighbors, friends and family.

Thank you, Andrew, for all the great work you have done!
