Dear Darrell:

I am most pleased to write a professional business reference for you and your company.

As you know, our paths first crossed almost 6 years ago when I managed your account at XO Communications. Since then, we've found many ways to work more closely together and I am confident that both companies have grown from that relationship. There are definite synergies between our two organizations. Your strength comes in the technology portion of computer repair/sales, phone systems and web hosting/design including overall maintenance for all. We compliment you by providing the infrastructure cabling, be it voice, data, fiber and design work.

While I've interacted with you and your staff over the years, a few common threads have surfaced which continues to reinforce why we continue to grow together. Professionalism, prompt follow up, candid conversations, managing expectations, utmost attention given to morals and ethics are all strong evidence of why Emerald will continue to grow and succeed. We also are extremely pleased with the level of Customer Service that's always a part of our involvement with you and your team, as well as you commitment to proper work place ethics.

I am confident that whoever looks to your company, your staff or yourself for solutions will experience a positive, high level of service from a top notch IT company.

Sincerely,

Alan Moffatt
