To whom it may concern:

Rachel Clifton with Buckhead Skincare has transformed my skin, to say the least. I went to her for my first visit as a maintenance visit to address some of my personal concerns. Her approach is very science-based and educational. She first evaluated my skin and reviewed my current skincare products for a very comprehensive overview. She then recommended the Hydrafacial Deluxe to me, which really revived my skin and gave me a noticeable glow. Compliments galore that week!

Throughout my treatments, she recommended two serums to me to address some of my sun damage and to protect my skin. I told her that I was looking to refine my pores, and she explained to me how that works, and why some products I was promised in the past did not work for me.

Fast-forward 2 months, my skin is nearly unrecognizable. My closest friends have expressed how impressed they are with my skin with jaw-dropping reactions. Two of my girl friends have already booked appointments with Rachel based solely on how impressed they are with my improvements.

These past two years, I have seen two aestheticians multiple times with repeat visits. They are both great, but nobody has been able to provide the results that Rachel has given me. I have been somewhat happy with my skin these past two years, but now others are noticing as well with this radical transformation.

If your skin needs a refresh or you'd like to address specific issues with your skin, I recommend you visit Rachel Clifton. Not only does she treat the skin, but she explains the science behind it as well so that your skincare routine also receives a boost.

Thank you Rachel.

Sincerely,
