When the Covid pandemic hit, like many business owners, I pivoted to an online model operated from my home.

As a hypnotherapist, it is essential that I have good connectivity. No one wants their therapy session interrupted by a bad zoom connection.

The problem is that I live in a 4-story townhouse, and although the internet connection was strong, it didn't reach all 4 levels.

I wanted the flexibility to work on any level of the home, and also be able to print any document I needed from the 4th floor printer.

It wasn't until every other zoom call was freezing up, and the printer became hopelessly jammed, that I finally enlisted the help of Matt Hoffman at Frontline.

Matt came to my home, quickly diagnosed the situation, and quoted a very fair price. A few days later he came back to install Access Points on all 4 levels of the townhome, carefully choosing the most strategic, yet discreet locations for the equipment.

It has been 8 months since Matt did this job. Every day since, I have enjoyed the flexibility of working from anywhere in my house, and the luxury of knowing that whenever I press the PRINT button on my screen – even from the ground floor - a document will show up in the top floor printer seamlessly.

I highly recommend Matt Hoffman of Frontline Technology to any small business owner who needs reliable connectivity for their work and their clients.
