I recommend Chris Marosy of “Integrity Construction Services”.

When someone says, “Home Contractor”, my experience has not been favorable; in fact, I think of double-talk, bait-n-switch, jacked-up pricing, and unfulfilled promises. It was refreshing to meet Chris and discuss my project. He explained the need for a structural engineer to confirm the best techniques to maximize load capacity. Once I had the engineer’s suggestions, Chris provided a detail quote, which we reviewed. His crew arrived on time and were courteous. As many projects do, unforeseen issues arose which were explained, and solutions provided. Upon completion, his crew removed excess materials and Chris followed-up, to check on the finished job. He identified a small issue that was not done to his quality standards, and had his crew correct it without my prompting. With his guidance, our goals were accomplished, on time, and with no surprises.

I came to appreciate Chris’ knowledge and problem-solving skills which averted potential issues, protecting our home, (our investment). Through the process, I felt that he cared about my goals, and that we were satisfied with their workmanship.

I have since referred him to family and friends. When you hire Chris, you’re hiring an advocate with years of experience. We all want trusted professionals, I recommend Chris Marosy of “Integrity Construction Services”.

Sincerely, Ray Evans
