Stefan Proscapes, LLC

To Whom It May Concern:

Recently, I hired Stefan Proscapes to remove bushes, trim trees (including a century-old white oak), and upgrade the landscaping at my home. The property sits on a steep hillside with extraordinarily complex hardscapes and beds, making the work especially challenging.

From the first walk-through, Stefan's insight was exact. His recommendations carried the quiet certainty of someone who knows not just how to work with the land, but how to reveal its best self. His mastery of landscaping was immediately evident, and I have never encountered a more knowledgeable professional in the field.

When the work was complete, the transformation was striking. The views now breathe with light and air, the lines of the house stand in confident relief against the hillside, and the entire property feels purposeful and alive. It is the kind of result that makes you stop mid-step, not just to look—but to see. Neighbors have gone out of their way to comment on the exceptional quality of his work, many noting how it changes the experience of the street itself.

I can recommend him wholeheartedly and without reservation.
