To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to endorse Kenitra Herrington and her company, 3D Handyman Atlanta, as I can speak from both personal experience and the experiences of people I have referred to 3D Handyman. First, allow me to say that Kenitra is one of the most polite, professional, and caring people I know. When Kenitra says she treats each customer as if they were personally her neighbor, she means it. The pricing is fair, the craftsmen are skilled and thorough, and the finished product always beats expectations.

The first time I hired 3D Handyman, I needed a ceiling fan replaced in mid-summer for my tenant. One of Kenitra's team members came the next day, replaced the fan on his own, and he left the bedroom so tidy it was as if he was never there at all. The second time I hired 3D Handyman, my wife and I needed some trim to be repainted around our front entryway – a job too small for the painting company I know and love, but a job too big for me to do on my own. 3D Handyman completed the task promptly and perfectly, and it was done in one hour less than the quote, so they saved me an hour of labor cost that I was already willing to pay. That is how honest and trustworthy Kenitra and her team are.

When my in-laws bought a home in Brookhaven, they hired 3D Handyman to mount a TV and handle various bathroom remodeling tasks, including but not limited to installing a pedestal sink and new ceiling exhaust fans. The craftsmen did a great job on every task.

On each of these occasions, Kenitra and 3D Handyman have gone above and beyond! They are as honest as the day is long, and I will gladly continue referring friends and family to them.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Z. Levy, Esq.
