

Mary Block
Mobility Plus Alpharetta

Before I joined PowerCore, I went through shoulder surgery on my dominant arm. I was anxious, in pain, and facing weeks of limited mobility. My surgeon recommended sleeping in a recliner, so we bought one... only to discover, three days before surgery, that the control button was on the wrong side—completely unusable once my arm would be in a sling.

On Friday at 9 p.m., feeling panicked, my husband remembered a woman he'd briefly met at an event. It was Mary. I called to leave a message—and Mary answered. She was kind, calm, and caring in a moment when I really needed it.

By Saturday morning, a recliner was delivered. The team that brought it made sure everything was placed perfectly and that I felt supported.

That recliner truly saved me. It had a remote I could easily use, and it turned out to be far better than the one we had purchased and returned. I had everything I needed within reach. The chair was my home, day and night, for four weeks.

Fast forward, and Mary was a member of the PowerCore team I joined a year later. As I got to know her, it became clear: The care she brings to her business is who she is. And that care shows up clearly in her entire team.

If you're looking for mobility equipment and want to be treated like family, Mary Block is the person to call. Her integrity, kindness, and attention to the little things make a real difference. And in moments when you need it most, that kind of care makes all the difference.

With deep gratitude,
