I am happy to recommend Karen Armstrong as a real estate agent for those looking to buy or sell your home. Karen, an agent at Keller Williams, was instrumental in helping us buy our first home. We were on vacation out of the country when we saw a house that we really liked. Karen immediately went and looked at the house for us and helped negotiate the deal with us not even present. The communication we had with her throughout the process gave me full confidence, even without seeing the house in person, that we were making the right decision. Additionally, she met us the night we got back in town at 8:00pm on a Sunday to let us look at it for the first time. Karen went above and beyond to help us find our home and I would gladly endorse her services to others who are looking for someone they can count on to do the same for them.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rupert
