Thank you Betty!

The blog was written, by a very smart professor and written in her field, biology. The content was solid but I knew something needed to be tweaked so for 2 years it was on my back burner waiting for the day that running a business didn't consume so much of my time. Besides, my best written work is always a process and I was stuck on step 1

I asked for your advice and that conversation turned into hiring you to polish the work. And polish it you did. You turned factual content into an excellent blog with appropriate mentions of Next Age Fitness and thoughts on the points to highlight and where I could add a sentence or two to make readers aware of my 3D body scanner.

I was able to publish your work on my website, turn it into a handout for my clients to read more about visceral fat and you did it in a fraction of the time I would have taken me.

Sincerely,

Tammy Mealy
