

...solid support for your technology future

Dear Kevin,

I spend much of my time between multiple careers. When I'm not being an IT guru I can be found, either, directing, acting or performing music. Despite how it appears on the outside, I am uncomfortable being the center of attention, though I live a lifestyle of constantly being seen or having to be in front of people and I must work hard at being ok with it. Nothing magnifies this flaw more than when it's time to take pictures. I tend to avoid them as much as possible. Photoshoots are by no uncertainty the hardest thing for me to get through in an industry where they ARE required.

From the first day we took photos years ago, to the most recent set of PHENOMENAL pictures, you were the first and continue to be the ONLY Photographer that has been able to help me relax and be comfortable in front of the camera during a session. I'm amazed at how you can ALWAYS tell when I'm struggling at the beginning of the shoot (even though I try to hide it) and have consistently found a professional and creative way to help me relax and enjoy the experience, resulting in amazing photos.

Kevin, I am thankful that even though we've been friends for all these years and you've been taking my pictures for so long, you have never once teased me or acted in any unprofessional manner towards me during these photo shoots. You have never allowed our personal friendship to hinder or take away from an effective and quality session. I've always felt as if every shoot was the most important thing to you at that moment. It is clear to me that when you are working, nothing else matters, but the client.

I truly appreciate your professionalism, skill and most importantly our friendship. As you have always been there for me I will always be there for you.

Sincerely Your client and friend,

Jeff Paige
