Dear James,

Thank you so much!

For the past two years, I have been experiencing "allergy" symptoms every morning, primarily unexplainable high mucus buildup. This is unusual for me, as I do not have any known allergies. I have spent practically every morning for the past two years dry heaving and vomiting every time I brushed my teeth. Of course this was worrisome to the point that I sought medical assistance. My primary doctor had no advise for me other than to take an over the counter allergy medication and my dentist blamed it on my smoking and offered me a fluoride gel to help avoid acidic damage to my teeth . Without any medical direction, I have simply suffered with this every day.

You came to my home last week and spent hours cleaning out my air ducts, in a small townhome I may add. The before photos were... discussing to say the least. Fast forward to the next morning and I COULD BREATHE! I was able to inhale clearly through both my nose and mouth, and for the first time in years I did not dry heave and vomit while brushing my teeth. The past week has been such a relief for my physical health and I have you to thank.

Sincerely,

Anya Leybovich
