Dear Tony:

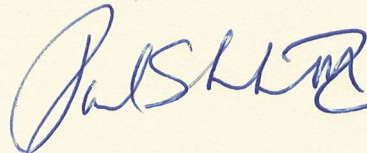

I vividly remember having lunch with you at Marietta Diner when you joined our team in 2007. The conversation turned to the subject of sub S corporations, and you told me about the tax advantages of incorporating. I was surprised to hear this, since the conservative accountant I had been using for over a decade had discouraged me from incorporating my personal injury law practice for various reasons. I was operating as a sole proprietorship all those years, paying lots of taxes unnecessarily. I would see my accountant only once a year to drop off information for my tax return, information that I spent several days compiling for him. He would have everything ready several weeks later.

I was so impressed with your command of the tax laws and your credentials as a former IRS agent that I decided to leave my accountant and give you my business. On your advice, I formed a professional corporation and hired Paychex to handle my payroll. Your firm handled my monthly bookkeeping, and you personally handled all of my tax planning, both business and personal.

This arrangement is now in its fifth year, and what a difference you have made! You saved me a tremendous amount of time and taxes. I especially like the way you prepare my returns—right in front of me while I wait. You are also readily accessible, by cell phone and email, to answer any tax or accounting question I may have.

Tony, I am extremely pleased with your service, and I have complete trust and confidence in you. That's why I highly recommend you.

Sincerely,

Paul Shimek III, president
