

To Everyone That I Hope Will Never Need This Information:

“Life changes in an instant. The ordinary instant.” I know this because on an ordinary Saturday after celebrating my Dog’s birthday with a breakfast on a restaurant patio with my family, we were driving home, stopped at a red light and then BOOM!

Life hit us and every airbag in the vehicle deployed. We all know too well that very distinctive sound of a car accident preceded by the screech of tires and followed by smoke.

I still see the look on the lady’s face right before she hit us. And her son bouncing around inside her vehicle. We all thankfully walked away from that scene.

I am not litigious. I do not understand the insurance game. We suffered property loss. I feared for my family, their potential and pending injuries and the trauma suffered by all. I also feared the uncomfortable process we needed to now endure.

In sharing this story with a trusted business professional, an immediate referral was provided to Paul Shimek – personal injury attorney. His compassion and patience were a bonus. His professional, thorough, and complete handling of our situation from beginning to a very successful and complete end was more than impressive.

I trust and highly recommend Paul Shimek to anyone who may find themselves in the unfortunate position of needing these time-sensitive and life affecting services.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly if I can ever offer details or any assistance in generating a valuable referral connection.

Stay safe out there,
