To anyone who owns a home or property with some trees:

My wife and I are expecting our first child in September. With that being said, you can imagine the thoughts that would keep a new parent up at night. Safety being a top priority. Whenever it rains or the wind slightly blows, I am reminded of the tree limb looming over the back of my house. With the new nursery being put together that happens to be in range of that tree, I reached out to my HOA who was in the process of getting quotes to remove or prune 40 trees in the neighborhood.

I met David with Georgia Tree Masters when he visited the Whitlock PowerCore group and promptly gave them his information. David and his team were incredibly professional and did a full inspection of all the trees in the neighborhood. As a certified arborist, he put the HOA board's mind at ease by informing them which trees are and are not at risk of falling. If he can talk a homeowner out of removing a healthy tree that is at no risk of falling, he will.

David and his team performed the work all in one day. Removing four trees and limbed one up around my house. On the other side of the neighborhood, he brought a crane and other equipment to access the trees that the row of townhomes blocked.

After passing the referral and before the work was done, David joined the Whitlock PowerCore team, and is a valuable asset bringing a new, "green", and safe perspective. When you get a chance to talk with him, ask him what he recommends you do on Father's Day.

I highly recommend David Breeden of Georgia Tree Masters to those who are kept up at night when they can hear a tree blowing in the wind. Please feel free to reach out to me directly if I can ever offer any assistance in generating a valuable referral connection.

Sincerely,
