Peter Tarantino has been my accountant for nearly three years. During this time, he never ceases to amaze me with his professionalism and dedication. He is one of the hardest working individuals I know and his knowledge of tax laws and tax planning is perfectly suited for small and medium sized business owners.

Peter's dedication to his profession and his clients is truly amazing. He routinely reviews changes to the tax laws and helps his clients to proactively reassess their business each year.

When I first met Peter, I was in the market for a new accountant. We spoke casually about my business. After asking a couple of questions, Peter provided a number of suggestions and considerations that were unique for my tax situation. The advice he provided was tailored to my individual needs and was provided without any concerns of whether or not I would eventually become a client.

While everyone either has or knows an accountant, I can guarantee that not everyone knows one like Peter Tarantino. The work that he has done on my behalf and others that I have referred to him is truly best-in-class and I feel confident that every time I pick up the phone to call him or refer someone to him that we will be getting the absolute best tax planning advice .

Yours truly,
