Dear Power Core:

Robert Slocum with NorthPoint Home Services recently did several repairs at my home. I had scheduled Robert to come out to inspect our exterior double doors. Our home is 15 years old and the doors were no longer closing with a tight seal. After further inspecting the door he discovered that the threshold had rotted and with every rainfall water was pooling underneath our interior hardwood floors.

Time was of essence, one week to be exact. We had CertaPro Painters of Roswell scheduled to begin painting the exterior of our home and these repairs needed to be completed prior to their arrival. Unfortunately during this short timeframe Robert fell ill yet he never wavered from his commitment. Within less than a week, Robert ordered and installed our new door including a double window at the rear of the house. His efficiency, knowledge and excellent work reaffirmed his already noted reputation.

As a perfectionist, I of course want any work at my home to be done correctly and completed on time but character stands above all other expectations. Robert does an outstanding job, is trustworthy, and above all, he is a man of his word. If you are in need of some work done at your home, repairs or remodeling, look no further. Robert Slocum is your man.

With Sincere Appreciation and Gratitude, I thank you!
