Dear Dr. Q,

Thank you so much!

Hi, my name is Anya, and I am addicted to the crack. Cracking my neck, my back, and of course my fingers and toes. While there were cracks during my adjustments there were many places that did not, but I could still feel a benefit from each move you made. I have been going to a chiropractor off and on since 2013, but your practice is the most unique.

The initial appointment:

I have never had anyone spend over an hour with me during an initial appointment. It was very clear that your practice focuses not only on adjustments but on education. In each step of the evaluation there were physical items that I could look, touch and play with which helped provide a visual of what was going on in my bones. You took time to go over average symptoms and complaints that arise from each vertebrae you felt was out of place. At the end of that first appointment, you provided me with a time line for next steps and got me in a few days later to go over x-rays.

The follow up appointment:

Many business owners have their set operating hours. I have never had a medical practitioner, of any kind, set an appointment up outside of regular business hours. I absolutely love that you do! I felt very comfortable coming in prior to opening. This allowed me to take up as much of your time as I felt necessary, without the guilt of taking you away from other clients.

I have gone over at my x-rays numerous times in the past. However the explanation and depth that you went into was a new experience for me. Never did I feel stupid for asking a question, and honestly your explanation left me with very few at the end. You even made me feel better about myself, as I was expecting much worse feedback than I received.

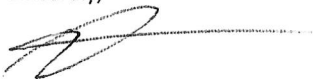

The first adjustment:

Rome may not have been built in a day, but my body was rebuilt in less than 5 minutes, or at least that is how it felt. I walked out of the office, sat down in my car, and had to adjust my rear view mirror up. I have not had to put it back down yet! While the rest of my body will truly take time for me to notice a large change, my jaw only took one night.

I have had 4 chiropractors that have tried to help with my jaw, and you are the first that actually helped alleviate the pressure and pain from my dislocated jaw. The tightness in my jaw muscles has faded, the pain and pressure is now minimal, and this is the closest to "normal" that I have felt since 2015.

I think that I have said enough for now, but please know that I could go on for another 10 pages. So thank you again, and I am looking forward to your help ending this crack addiction!

Sincerely,

Anya Leybovich
