Dear PowerCore Team Members:

I serve as a part of the leadership team for an all volunteer organization, The Stingrays, Inc. Swim Team. During the recent leadership transition, we had a miscommunication regarding the due date of our annual tax return filing. As a result, we were 15 days late in filing the return, which resulted in a letter from the IRS asking for a $8,600 late filing penalty. There was no way we could afford that.

After a few attempts at handling the issue myself, I realized that I needed some professional help. I contacted Len Nelms, CPA, owner of Leonard G. Nelms, CPA, P.C. (a member of my Whitlock Ave PowerCore team) and asked for his help. He knew that a penalty like that for our organization would be a huge burden, but he knew how to handle it. I gave him the authority to communicate with the IRS on our behalf, and within a few short weeks, we owed $0!! He knew how to say the right things, and he knew who the right person was to receive his letter. What a relief!

Thanks to Len, I don't have to write a personal check to cover the penalty, we don't have to assess the member families to help cover the penalty, and we are in good standing with the IRS.

Thank you, Len for your expertise in handling our issue, and for lifting a heavy burden off my shoulders.
