Dear Terisha,

In yoga class the woman beside me mentioned that she frequently has "killer" headaches. Strong enough that she has to leave work, often twice a week.

When you attended InfoMerical Workshop your focus was on headaches. It was clear that you understand the muscles of the head better than any massage therapist I'd ever heard. So I told Cynthia, in yoga class, that she wanted to talk to you – and why. She gave me her card, and asked for your number.

I saw Cynthia in class on Thursday. She was ecstatic! After an hour on your table Saturday, Cynthia had not missed a minute of work that week. Even better from her point of view, she also hadn't taken any of her usual pain medication.

You made me look good by making Cynthia feel good.

Thank you,
